THE REPUBLICAN.

Established 1869. BELLEFONTE, PA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1923 Vol. 54 No. 33

ENTRIES CLOSED FOR PRIMARIES ON SEPT. 18

Upward of 500 Candidates in Field in Centre County.

FETZER OUT OF RACE

Upward of 500 petitions for nomination for county, borough and township offices in Centre County were reported on file at the Court House when the lists were formally closed on Tuesday. The candidates thus entered will compete for nomination at the primaries to be held on September 18th.

Drawing by lot for numerical position on the ballot will be conducted at the County Commissioners' office on Tuesday, August 28th, from 9 A. M. until 2.30 P. M. Candidates unable to be present may be represented at that time by proxy.

An eleventh hour surprise was the failure of Harry F. Fetzer, of Runville, Boggs Township, to file his petition for Republican nomination for Sheriff. He had been in the field as a candidate for several months. The contest for the Republican nomination for this office is thereby narrowed down to William H. Brown and Jacob Knisely.

Petitions were filed for renomination of Ad. Fauble for Council in the South Ward on both Republican and Democratic tickets. Mr. Fauble formally withdrew the petitions, declaring that he had no such aspirations.

Republican and Democratic candidates to file for County offices, also petitions filed for Bellefonte Borough offices, follows:

Republican.

Sheriff—William H. Brown, Bellefonte; Jacob S. Knisely, Bellefonte.

District Attorney—Arthur Dale, Bellefonte; John G. Love, Bellefonte.

MRS. NANCY M'MEEN WILL BE 94 ON MONDAY

Grand Old Lady of Centre County Has Fine History

HELPS SICK AND POOR

To Mrs. Nancy McMeen, of Curtin, "The Republican" as one of a host of friends extends congratulations on her 94th birthday which comes on Monday, August 27th. May her's be a happy birthday!

Born in Milesburg, the daughter of Samuel Lipton, a pioneer who became very well-to-do in his day by his shrewd business genius and capacity for hard work, she was reared in the valley where she is perhaps best known and most highly thought of.

Her father was a lumberman and merchant, his operations covering much territory in the vicinity of Snow Shoe and along the Susquehanna river. He made good as a business man and as a home builder, having a family of ten children.

Among the buildings in Milesburg which stand in memory of his achievements are the Presbyterian parsonage, built about 75 years ago, and several dwellings near the Diamond.

James Lipton, a brother of Mrs. McMeen, served several terms as Prothonotary of Centre County. Of the ten children, Mrs. McMeen is the last survivor.

She makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Curtin, Sr., of Curtin, and is known as the "Good Angel" of the community, seemingly deriving more pleasure from serving and helping others than from any other source. She has good use of all her faculties, is sprightly and supple and has not been obliged to use glasses for fifteen years, her sight being improved in her latter days. She is very good to the sick and poor, believing in practical religion more than theory.

Perhaps the greatest disappointment in Mrs. McMeen's life was the loss of her husband, death claiming him when he was but 27 years old. Dr. William McMeen, was a druggist, and it was customary in early days for druggists also to practice medicine and he was associated with Dr. George L. Potter, a well known local physician. Mrs. Harry Curtin was the only child of Dr and Mrs. McMeen and so it makes life very pleasant for the mother and daughter to be spared for each other, Mrs. Curtin also being bereaved of her husband some years ago.

Mrs. McMeen has four grandchildren; J. Mac Curtin, of Pittsburgh; John Curtin, of Bellefonte; H. Laird Curtin, of Curtin, and Catherine, wife of P. V. Hodge, of Syracuse. There are fourteen great-grandchildren. All love their grandmother, who is much devoted to them.

THEY WILL NOT MIX

Booze and Gasoline Proving Bad Combination for Motorists.

A collision last Thursday evening on the concrete road at Snow Shoe Intersection, in which the Ford coupe of "Gander" Myers, of Bellefonte, and a Buick touring car of "Demp" Reesner, of Snow Shoe, were considerably damaged, emphasized that booze and gasoline simply won't mix well. This is all the more emphatic as several accidents have occurred this month in which it is averred the drivers were indulging in intoxicating beverages.

Nobody was injured in the accident on Thursday evening but the free flow of "plain language" that Myers let loose on Reesner seems to have impressed the latter, it being remarked since the mishap that Reesner admits "that Myers can lick our whole connection."

Reesner has been blamed for the accident, it being alleged that Myers noticed the Buick was not properly driven and that it looked so menacing to him that he drove his coupe so far to the right that the wheels on one side of his car were off the concrete and that Reesner was unable to control his car and struck head-on with one side of Myers' car.

The coupe was taken to the Beatty garage for repairs and the Buick was towed into the Deitrick—Dunlap Cadillac company garage on Friday morning.

P. S. C. Hearing Here.

A representative of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission will hold a hearing in the Court House in Bellefonte on Friday to consider a petition of the Keystone Power Corporation asking for the power of eminent domain to continue their lines through the Hoy and Dale lands near State College. Arthur Dale, of Bellefonte, is counsel for the Keystone Power Corporation.

Higher Court Sustains Right Of One Partner To Ask Centre Co. Bank Be Declared Bankrupt

The long-delayed opinion and decree by the United States Court of Appeals in the Centre County Bank matter was handed down on Monday, the Court holding that John M. Shugert, acting as a partner in the bank, acted within his rights and powers when he filed a petition setting forth that the bank was insolvent and asking that it and the several partners be declared bankrupts. The Court of Appeals affirmed the ruling of Judge Witmer in the District Court. The Shugert petition was resisted by Geo. R. Meek, who now may elect, if he chooses to do so, to ask for a jury trial to determine whether he was a partner in the bank when it failed.

There is now before Judge Witmer a petition filed by the depositors' committee, asking that the bank, also Mr. Shugert, Mrs. Mary F. Harris and Mrs. Florence F. Dale be formally declaerd bankrupts so that adjudication of the defunct bank and its several partners may be proceeded with. In view of the decision of the Court of Appeals, the presumption is that Judge Witmer will approve the petition and issue such an order. When this point is reached it will be for Mr. Meek to decide what course he cares to pursue to settle the question of his liability. There can be no appeal from the ruling of the Court of Appeals without permission of that Court, itself. Should Mr. Meek elect to ask for a jury trial on the question of his having been a partner at the time of the bank's failure, and should the verdict be adverse to him, he could appeal to the United States Supreme Court without first securing permission from the Court of Appeals. Regardless of what steps are decided upon for him by his counsel, once Judge Witmer disposes of the petition now before him the adjudication of the bank's affairs may be taken up and disposed of without further delay, that is, in all respects other than the matter of Mr. Meek's liability. It is understood that there will be no further proceedings in the matter of Andrew Breeze. In his case it is conceded that he sold his shares in the bank to Mr. Shugert and that he neither signed, nor gave a power of attorney for signing, the fictitious name petition on record at the Court House.

The opinion and decree of the Court of Appeals, as handed down this week, follows:

John M. Shugert, George R. Meek, Mary C. Harris, Florence F. Dale, Andrew Breeze and Lavina Katherine Harris conducted a banking business at Bellefonte, Pa., under the firm name of Centre County Banking Company. Lavina Katherine Harris died and while her estate was being administrated in the Probate Court of Centre County, John M. Shugert filed a petition in his own name and in the name of the partnership in which he alleged that he individually, the partnership and his partners were all insolvent and prayed that he, the partnership and the partners, individually, be adjudged bankrupts. After the service of subpoenas on all the partners personally except Andrew Breeze who was served by publication, the appellants filed petitions praying the court to dismiss Shugert's petition in bankruptcy for two reasons: First, Shugert was without authority, without consent of his partners, to have the partnership and the individual members thereof adjudicated bankrupts; and second, the partnership cannot be adjudicated a bankrupt because the estate of Lavina Katherine Harris, constituting part of the partnership estate, was being administered in the Probate Court of Centre County. Authority of one partner to institute proceedings in bankruptcy involving his partners individually and the partnership was conferred by section 36 of the Act of 1867, but this authority, they contend, was omitted from the Act of 1898 and this omission shows that Congress intended to repeal the authority granted in that section. But section 5 a and c, of the Act of 1898 provides that:

(a) "A partnership, during the continuation of the partnership business, or after its dissolution and before the final settlement thereof, may be adjudged a bankrupt.

(c) The court of bankruptcy which has jurisdiction of one of the partners may have jurisdiction of all the partners and of the administration of the partnership and individual property."

General Order No. VIII provides that: "Any member of a partnership, who refuses to join in a petition to have the partnership declared bankrupt, shall be entitled to resist the prayer of the petition in the same manner as if the petition had been filed by a creditor of the partnership, and notice of the filing of the petition shall be given to him in the same manner as provided by law and by those rules in the case of a debtor petitioned against."

Appellants contends that the above section and General Order refer to involuntary and not to voluntary petitions in bankruptcy. General Order No. VIII was promulgated by the Supreme Court pursuant to section 30 of the Act of 1896 and had the force of law. This section provides that:

"All necessary rules, forms, and orders as to procedure and for carrying this act into force and effect shall be prescribed, and may be amended from time to time, by the Supreme Court of the United States."

So far as the language of section 5 provides, the adjudication against a partnership may be based on either a voluntary or involuntary petition. The appellants admit that an adjudication may be based on an involuntary petition, but not on a voluntary petition filed by one of the partners. Under the authority of section 36 of the Act of 1867 a voluntary petition might be filed by "anyone" of the partners or by "any creditor" of the partnership. There is nothing in the language of section 5 of the Act of 1898 restricting adjudications to involuntary petitions. It simply provides that "a partnership—may be adjudged a bankrupt." Did not Congress in section 5 of the later Act tersely include everything contained in section 36 of the earlier Act? In the absence of any provision in the Act of 1898 to the contrary, we think the true interpretation requires us to hold that it did? If the Act of 1898 had provided that "a partnership may be adjudged a bankrupt" on the petition of "any creditor," this would have indicated that Congress intended to deny to an individual partner authority to file a petition against the partnership. In that event, the argument of counsel that expressio unius est exclusio alterius would have force. Under the broad authority conferred by section 5 of the Act of 1898 a petition may be filed by "any one" of the partners, and by "any creditor." The legal maxim on which counsel's argument on this phase of the case is based has no application to the facts before us.

General Order No. VIII provides that: "Any member of a partnership who refuses to join in the petition—shall be entitled to resist the prayer" etc. By the words "join in," the Supreme Court had in mind a voluntary petition filed by a member of the partnership and this petition is distinguished from a petition filed by a "creditor" in which a member of the partnership would not "join in." Judge Lowell held in the case of In re Forbes et al. 128 Fed. 137, 140 that a petition by one partner dispenses with the necessity of proof of any other act of bankruptcy by the partnership and if the other partners do not "join in" the petition, they may resist it just as they might have done if "any creditor" of the partnership had filed an involuntary petition. The opinion received the commendation of the Supreme Court, Francis V. McNeal, 228 U. S. 695. Where a partnership is composed of two members and one of the members is adjudicated a bankrupt but the other is not, the bankruptcy court may draw to itself and administer the estate of the other to an extent sufficient to pay the debts of the partnership adjudged to be bankrupt. Armstrong V. Fisher et al., 224 Fed. 97; Francis V. McNeal, 186 Fed. 481, affirmed in 228 U. S. 695; Youngbluth V. Slipper et al., 185 Fed. 773.

Does the fact that the estate of Lavina Katherine Harris is being administered in the Probate Court of Centre County, Pennsylvania prevent adjudication and administration of the partnership in bankruptcy? "There is an apparent conflict of authority upon this question!" Collier on Bankruptcy (12 Ed.) 175. The death of one of the partners does not in any wise affect the insolvency of the partnership. Insolvency does not depend upon whether the property liable to creditors is in the hands of a living surviving partner or in the hands of the administrator of his estate. Proceedings against an insolvent partnership and insolvent partners should not be made impossible because one of the partners is dead. Vaccaro et al. v. Security Bank of Memphis et al., 130 Fed. 436,443. The contrary view is based on the proposition that the court which first secures possession of the funds shall administer them, but there is no need whatever of conflict over the property of the decedant'u estate. Partnership assets are liable primarily for partnership debts. After the individual assets of the estate of Lavina Katherine Harris are administered by the Probate Court if there is a surplus to be applied to the partnership debts, it will be turned over to the bankruptcy court. In re Stem & Co. 127 Fed. 547. The order appealed from is affirmed.

Enlarging Pleasant Gap Hatchery to Yield 1,320,000 Brook and Brown Trout Each Year

The State fish hatchery at Pleasant Gap is to be enlarged to increase its annual output 40%. Work on a large new building is now under way, ground having been broken several days ago.

N. R. Buller, State Commissioner of Fisheries, who was at the Pleasant Gap hatchery last night, informed "The Republican" today that the plans under way provide for so enlarging the hatchery as to make it one of the largest in the east. Natural conditions there for propagating and developing brook and brown trout, stated Commissioner Buller, are better for a large, modern hatchery than may be found in most sections.

The present output of the hatchery is from 600,000 to 800,000 one-year-old brook and brown trout. With the completion of the proposed new propagating and developing building the annual output will be increased to a minimum of 1,320,000 each year. This may be advanced to 1,500,000 a year.

Announcement of Commissioner Buller's plans will be hailed with delight by sportsmen. It means more fish for the streams in Centre County and elsewhere.

Philip L. Beezer suffered a stroke yesterday on a return trip from Danville, where he had been taking treatment at the hospital. His condition is serious.

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR ABSOLVED FROM BLAME

Tony Rodowich Struck by Auto as He Crossed High Street.

LARGE FAMILY SURVIVES

A very lamentable accident occurred on High street on Saturday evening which resulted in the death of Tony Rodowich, a well known foreigner of Collins Row, on Sunday morning.

Early Saturday evening Rodowich attempted to cross High street near the Willard clothing store, traffic being unusually heavy at the time and both sides lined with parked cars, he did not notice the car coming up the street and to avoid being hit by a car traveling down town he stepped directly in front of the car coming up. He was carrying an alarm clock under one arm and it was noticed that it stopped at 7:45, about the time the car struck the unfortunate man

A crowd gathered at once and the injured man was taken into Dr. David Dale's office, nearby. After being made as comfortable as possible, he was taken to the hospital in the ambulance. Soon afterward he lapsed into unconsciousness and remained so until about 9:45 o'clock on Sunday morning, when he passed away.

At a Coroner's inquest at the office of Kline Woodring, Esq., on Monday afternoon, the Coroner's Jury learned that death was caused by a broken back and that Isaac Stine, of Valley View, was the driver of the car—a Ford roadster—and that his speed was under 15 miles an hour. As a result of their findings they exonerated Mr. Stine from blame.

Tony Rodowich was a native of Austria and was born Dec. 31, 1875. He is survived by his widow, whose maiden name was Barbara Kobic, and the following children: Mrs. John Cushing and Mrs. George Colric, of Bellefonte; Frank, Margaret, Catherine, Rose, Barbara, Steve and Clara, all at home. The deceased was employed at the American Lime & Stone Co. plant and was one of the best known foreigners of this section. Funeral services were conducted at St. John's Catholic church by Rev. Wm. Downes on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and burial made in the Catholic cemetery.

BUSINESS MEN'S PICNIC

Was Very Successful Affair With $100 Cleared.

Everywhere there is favorable comment this year about the splendid success of the Business Men's picnic last Thursday. There have been years when the crowd was larger, but this may be due to the fact that things are different nowadays. The automobile keeps crowds moving. John B. Payne, who looked after the publicity affairs of the picnic, said:

"You might say the crowd was about 5 000. Autos kept coming and going all the time. The crowd was moving continually. Most of the people were there while the ball game was in progress.

"We will have somewhere about $90 to $100 after all the bills are paid. Last year there were about $40 in bills that were unpaid and carried over until this year. That made more to be paid this time. We took out $1,000 rain insurance and it cost us $166 50. The rate for rain insurance depends on the time of day and length of time the policy covers.

"Last year there was a loss in the ball games. It cost over $600 to get the outside teams here. This year we had two games. We paid each team $50 and expenses, making the ball games cost us about $300. On this end, we probably cleared about $200. Then there was the money from concessions and the dancing in the evening netted us close to $200.

"But with our picnic it is different from some organizations. We had about $90 to pay out for help and another $125 to pay to Jerles, the man who served meals. Organizations like the firemen and American Legion, can look after these matters and increase their net.

"However we are very well pleased. We did not have the picnic this year to make money. It was like it is always intended to be, a picnic where the folks from all over Centre County can get together and, as guests of the Business Men of Bellefonte, enjoy themselves, the money taken in to pay the bills so we are fortunate to have a little balance this year.

"The big thing is that everybody seemed to enjoy the day. The weather was good picnic weather. The business men wanted their guests to have a good time and they are well satisfied."

The Odd Fellows band furnished unusually good concerts. As an extra feature, a vaudeville program was put on with the concerts. William Ryan amused the crowds with his juggling and balancing stunts. Master Irvin Martin and his sister, Miss Marie, sang and danced. Sergeant Steltz, formerly stationed with the local troop in Bellefonte and recently in Lewistown, was among those at the picnic. He played saxophone in the band and a friend who accompanied him from Lewistown, sang several baritone solos.

The base ball scores were—morning, State College defeated Millheim, 6—4; afternoon, Centre Hall defeated Bellefonte, 8—6.

The next big picnic at Hecla Park will be on Labor Day under the auspices of the Brooks-Doll post of the American Legion. The ex-service men put on a picnic each year which is different from others and generally have a good crowd when the weather is favorable.

YOUNG QUARRYMAN HIT BY FLYING STONE

Sylvester Burket, of Altoona, Died in Bellefonte Hospital

SKULL WAS FRACTURED

Sylvester Burket, a young man who resided with his sister on the Purdue farm along the mountain north-west of Coleville, was fatally injured on Friday afternoon while at work when a flying stone struck him on the back of the head.

Burket's parents reside in Altoona but he and his sister have occupied the Purdue farm for a number of years. He was employed by the Centre County Lime company and was under a quarry car, where he sought shelter, after a blast had been set. When the blast let go, a stone was hurled and struck the bank near the car, bouncing sidewise and striking the unsuspecting workman.

His injuries were not considered serious at first but a physician was immediately summoned and took him to the local hospital. It was about 3:30 when the accident occurred and at 4 o'clock he was admitted to the hospital. He remained conscious until about 6 o'clock, when he lapsed into unconsciousness, remaining so until his death later in the evening. Death was caused by a fracture at the base of the skull.

The body was taken in charge by Undertaker H. P. Harris and prepared for burial, being sent to Juniata on Saturday afternoon. His parents came to Bellefonte Saturday morning and arranged for care of the body.

Sylvester Samuel Burket was a son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Burket of Altoona. He had been employed in the stone quarry the past year. He was a native of Bellefonte where he was born Feb 28, 1905. His parents, David W. and Jennie Burket, later came to Altoona. The family also formerly resided in Juniata.

In addition to his parents he is survived by six sisters and four brothers, as follows: Mrs. David Rhodes, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Russel Mathes, at home; Oscar, Mrs. Roy Glass, Mrs. Edna Kuhn and Mrs. Robert Holton, of Altoona; Miss Eva, Kenneth and Donald, at home, and Lee, of Wilkinsburg.

Deceased was a member of the Juniata Church of the Brethren. The funeral was held at 2 30 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Juniata church of which the deceased was a member. Interment in Grandview cemetery.

ROBBED TELEPHONE BOOTH

Alleged Old Offender Caught by Bell Telephone Inspector.

Caught "tapping" the till of the Bell Telephone Company's booth for local and long distance calls at the Lock Haven station on Saturday night, a man giving his name as J. R. Vandergrift and said to be Joseph R. Vance, of Lancaster, was held in the Clinton County jail in default of $2,000 bail after being arraigned on Monday morning before a Lock Haven magistrate.

The alleged offender was caught by a Bell Telephone Company inspector, Frank W. Wolf, of Philadelphia, who claims that Vance is an old offender and has served time in the Eastern penitentiary. His record as kept by the Bell Telephony Company will be presented at the trial in court.

The Bell Telephone Company has a great system in detecting those who tamper with their apparatus or equipment and keep their own inspectors, paid well, and rated as keen detectives.

New Quarantines.

A quarantine for mumps was placed on the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Thomas, at the corner of Curtin and Allegheny streets, on Monday by Health Officer George Glenn, one of the Gephart children, who is visiting their grandparents, having the disease.

The Charles Saxion home on High street was quarantined for diphtheria on last Thursday. Mrs. Saxion is a sister of Dorothy Young, who died of the disease last week. Those ill from the dread malady are reported as getting along nicely.

The Al Bottorf home on Lamb St. was quarantined for scarlatina on Tuesday afternoon, one of the daughters being ill.

Want Troop Band.

Major Laird Curtin is desirous of having a troop band and will enlist for 3 years musicians who can play band instruments, the enlistments to be either in Troop B or Headquarters Troop. For application, go to the armory on Monday and Tuesday nights or see Capt. H. S. Miller at any time.

COULD NOT PAY THE CHECK

Unfortunate Indeed When the Lady Was Desirous of Making a Good Impression.

For two years I lived in a town that supported the most active set of gossips I ever encountered; you know—the sort of place where you hate to be the first one to leave a party because you know what the rest of them are going to do to you after you have gone.

Soon after I left one of the town's most prominent gossips varied a friend in my city. I said to my family that I should have to do something to entertain her, otherwise she would go home and talk about how mean I was, so I invited her to have luncheon at quite a nice place, my intention being to swank a little so she wouldn't have a chance to report anything unfavorable.

When we met as arranged, I was surprised to see her friend with her, and more surprised when said friend went right along with us into the restaurant. Between them they ordered a somewhat lavish luncheon, and when the check was presented to me I was short the miserable sum of 15 cents, and I had to borrow from my guest.

I know the town had a fruitful topic of conversation for a long, long time.—Chicago Tribune.

"There's a Reason"

EVEN THE AUTO

By IDA M. TUPPER

(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"BUT, father, you are so unreasonable! It's just because you have lived on a farm all your life, and are prejudiced against city people. Your ideas are so old-fashioned. Why, father, people in the city simply couldn't exist without automobiles, and as for Vaughn Norwood— Well, I'm sorry to displease you, father, but I have no intention of ending my friendship with him."

After delivering this declaration, Jane Witherspoon, with a defiant toss of her curly head, returned to the cookies she was skillfully cutting for the baking pan. She had recently graduated from college, where according to her father (rated the wealthiest man in the valley) she had acquired "notions."

The deacon's strong aversion for these "new-fangled" city things was demonstrated by his emphatic refusal to buy a car. The faithful mare, Roxy, whom the deacon had raised from a colt, he declared to be plenty fast enough for him, as he had no intention of endangering his life in one of "them thar road wreckers."

Jane's outburst was due to her father's command that she never step foot inside Vaughn Norwood's car, and, further, he didn't want the young "whippersnapper" to "sot foot on his land." Jane had never defied her parent before, although she had many times been exceedingly annoyed by his exacting prejudices. But this was more than even she could tolerate.

That night as Jane lay dreaming of a wonderful motor trip with Vaughn, crossing the country by gleaming lakes and towering mountains, her father's agitated, "Jane, Jane, come quick—mother—," shattered the dream into grim reality.

The girl was accustomed to such calls, as Nancy Witherspoon, a delicate, flowerlike little woman, had an unruly heart. After a glance at her mother, a brief test of the pulse, Jane ran for the strychnine. Her brain reeled momentarily when she saw the empty bottle. No stimulant, and mother . . .! Like lightning flashed the only possible chance of saving her beloved parent.

Grasping the telephone, she called the bearer of her father's animosity. "Vaughn, Jane speaking. Rush with strychnine—your car—mother." Her faltering voice told the story, and he needed no further explanation.

Her father, suffering intensely, as his wife was the idol of his heart, groaned in dismay when Jane disclosed the empty phial.

"Oh, Jane, what can we do? There wouldn't be time with old Roxy!"

Jane shook her head in negation.

"I've telephoned Vaughn, father, to rush out in his car. He ought to make it in ten minutes if he can get the medicine."

The man first glared at her, then nodded his head in submission.

As he patted Nancy's ice-cold hand he crooned, "Just hold on a few minutes more, dear, just a few minutes."

She smiled at them wanly and Jane worked over her almost frantically. Would he never come? Nancy grew paler and paler, her breath came in fluttering gasps.

The whir of an engine, the door opened and Vaughn handed Jane the medicine. She quickly administered to her mother. All enmity was forgotten between Vaughn and Witherspoon in their united efforts to revive Nancy.

After several hours, when life had been restored and his wife was tranquilly sleeping, the old man extended his hand to the departing Norwood.

"Vaughn, I've been an obdurate old codger. Boy, I can't thank you—" Tears of gratitude trickled down the elder man's wrinkled cheeks as he continued: "You've helped me keep the dearest thing in life to me, and just to get even with you I'll buy one of your ding-busted road-wreckers."

When the Deacon drove out in his new car and announced that Jane was soon to become Mrs. Norwood, the sewing circle held two meetings in one week to fathom out how it ever happened.

But the Deacon knew that "a friend in need is a friend indeed"—even the auto.

Tame Deer in British Columbia.

An interesting story comes from British Columbia by the roundabout way of the Yorkshire (England) Post, as follows: A settler took up his abode on a small rocky island. After he had been there a few days, a solitary deer paid him a visit. He put down some cornstalks for it, and, later, it brought a second. Food was provided regularly, and by the end of the year thirty were in the habit of coming, swimming, as he learned, from the mainland. The animals soon lost all fear, and clustered round the dwelling as cattle might, some of the more daring knocking at the door to announce their presence.

Quite Disappointed.

She reached Newquay after dark and was met by friends who motored her to their country home on a hillside.

The next morning she walked into the garden, quite prepared to be astounded by the grandeur of Cornwall. Down an avenue of tall trees she caught a glimpse of sky-blue water.

"What is that water?" she asked.

"That," replied her hostess, proudly, "is the Atlantic ocean."

"Oh, I had an idea it was larger."

PECTIN EXTRACT HAS MANY COOKING USES

Lemon or Orange Best for Making Clear Amber Jelly.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many fruit juices that do not ordinarily make successful jelly may be jellied by the use of pectin extracts. Lemon or orange pectin extract is better to use than apple pectin extract when a clear amber jelly is desired from such juices as pineapple, orange, lemon or grapefruit. Even with rhubarb, apple pectin extract often produces a dark, cloudy jelly instead of the transparent, brightly-tinted product which may be secured by the use of the practically colorless orange or lemon pectin.

Thick-skinned oranges and lemons are best to use for this purpose. The fruit should be washed and wiped dry; and the outer yellow rind, which would impart an undesirable flavor, should be carefully pared off, using a silver or glass knife, or a steel blade which does not stain. It is easier to remove this rind before the fruit is cut than afterwards.

After the yellow skin is removed the white peel is cut off in as large pieces as possible, care being taken that none of the fruit pulp adheres to it. If as much as one-half pound of peel is collected at one time, the extraction of the pectin may be made at once. If, however, the peel is collected from time to time in small amounts, it can be dried and kept either until there is a sufficient quantity to make the process of extraction practical, or until the jelly is to be made. It must be so carefully dried that all discoloration is prevented, otherwise the flavor will not be good.

Convenient quantities to use are: one pound fresh white peel and two quarts of water.

Put the fresh peel through a meat grinder, using the coarse blade, then place it in a granite saucepan large enough to permit rapid boiling, cover it with the water and allow it to stand for one or two hours. Just before beginning to heat, measure the depth of the material in the pan, by standing a silver knife or spoon handle upright in it. Boil rapidly until the volume is reduced to a little less than one-half of the original, measure the depth as before. Strain through four thicknesses of cheesecloth and allow to stand until dripping is complete. The dripping may be hastened a little by pressing the mass lightly with a spoon.

Two more extractions are made in the same way, adding two quarts of water to the pomace each time. It is not necessary, however, to allow the pomace and water to stand for an hour before heating, as it was in making the first extraction.

Mix the three extractions together. If the peel has been cooked according to the directions given, a little less than one pint of strained liquid should be obtained as a result of each extraction, and the total amount from a pound of peel should be about two and one-half pints. The lemon pectin extract obtained in this way is sufficiently concentrated for use. Better results are obtained with the orange pectin if the combined extracts are concentrated by boiling until the yield is reduced to two pints. Stir the liquid constantly during the boiling, since there is considerable danger of scorching.

The extract from lemon peel is a thick, somewhat sirupy liquid having a pale sediment and no very pronounced flavor. The extract from orange peel is thinner in consistency. Pectin extracts should always be shaken before using, as the sediment contains much pectin.

Citrus-pectin extract prepared in this way does not always keep so well as does the more acid apple-pectin extract. Process in a steam pressure cooker at 10 degrees for 10 minutes. Small containers are advisable, so that when a jar is opened all of the contents may be used at once and none need be lost by spoilage.

COOK BEEF AND CALF HEARTS

Should Appear Occasionally on Family Menu Because of Variety and Economy.

Beef and calf hearts are most palatable when properly prepared, and, for the sake of variety as well as economy, since they are among the less expensive meats, they should occasionally appear on the family menu. Beef hearts are tougher than calf hearts, and must be given long cooking. calf hearts may either be cooked very quickly, as when they are sliced and fried, or given long, slow cooking, in the same way beef heart is prepared.

For the latter dish, wash either kind of heart thoroughly inside and out, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Stuff it with a mixture of broken or crumbed bread from the center of the loaf, butter or other fat, salt, pepper and chopped onion. About one cupful of bread to one small onion is a good proportion, and sufficient to stuff a beef heart. As calf hearts are so much smaller, several will be needed, and the same amount of stuffing can be made to do for two or three hearts. Sew up the opening. Cover the heart or hearts with water and simmer until tender, or boil for ten minutes and cook in the fireless cooker for six or eight hours. Remove from the water about one-half hour before serving. Dredge with flour, pepper and salt, or sprinkle with crumbs, and brown in the oven. Serve with a gravy made from the water in which the meat was cooked.

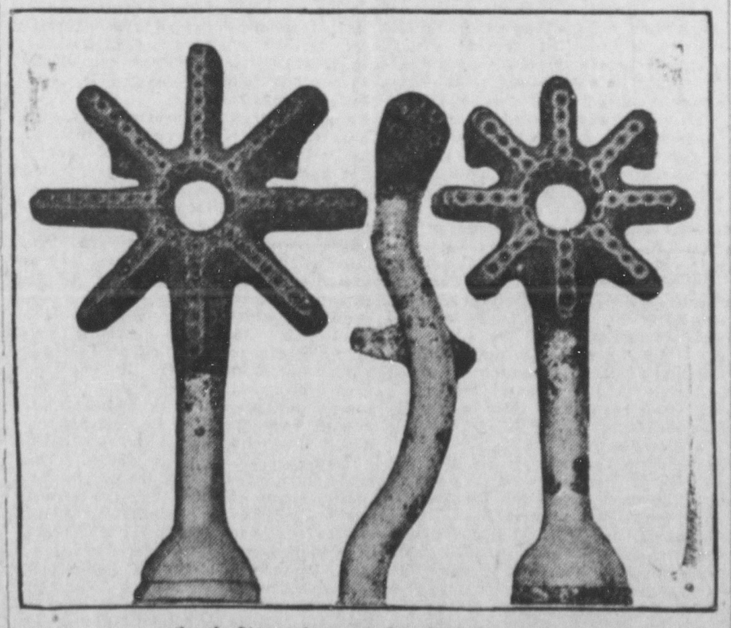
SIMMERING MUTTON IS BEST

Important for Cook to Remember That "Boiled" Meat Should Never Come to Boil.

An important thing to be remembered is that "boiled" meat should not boil, but simmer, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Prepare a leg or shoulder or lamb, or mutton, for cooking. Have ready a large kettle containing enough boiling water to cover the meat. Lower the meat into the water, taking care that it is entirely submerged. Bring the water again to the boiling point, then place kettle where water will simmer, as shown by continued motion on one side of the kettle. Continue the simmering until the meat is tender, from an hour and a half to two hours for lamb and from two to three hours for mutton. While cooking add to the water salt, pepper and any other seasonings liked.

WHICH GAS BURNER TO USE AND WHY



Giant, Simmering and Standard Burners.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Save gas by depending largely on the simmering burner. Use the medium-sized or standard burner to start water boiling or food cooking; then continue the cooking over the simmering burner. After food or water has reached the boiling point, it will continue to cook at that temperature with a very small application of heat, and most cereals, vegetables, gravies or meats which require long, slow cooking can be finished on the simmering burner with a minimum consumption of gas. The simmerer should never soot or smoke the bottom of the utensil above it, even when turned low. It should be used as often as possible. Putting two simmering burners on a stove may even be found an economy. The giant or largest burner should only be used when absolutely necessary, either to concentrate some food rapidly by violent boiling, without regard to gas consumption, or when a food is being cooked in a saucepan with a very large bottom. The giant burner uses from one-third to one-half more gas than other burners.

Turn to Lowest Point.

Any burner in use should be turned down to the lowest possible point which will maintain the temperature of the boiling point as soon as boiling begins. To leave the burner turned high throughout the boiling process, is to waste gas. Tests made on various gas stoves by the United States Department of Agriculture have shown that fully one-half the gas used in any one day's cooking with the gas turned high or on full, may be saved by turning the gas down as quickly as possible. When the medium-sized star burner uses 12 to 14 cubic feet of gas per hour, the giant burner, it was found, used 18 cubic feet, and the simmering burner used about three to four cubic feet. The ordinary and giant burners can be turned down to keep food boiling while consuming not more than three cubic feet of gas per hour, and the simmerer can be so turned down that it uses only half that amount of gas.

Eberle Now Ranking Officer of Navy

Admiral E. W. Eberle has succeeded Admiral Robert E. Coontz as chief of operations, the ranking officer of the navy. He relinquished at San Diego command of the United States battle fleet to his successor, Admiral S. S. Robison.

Generally looked upon throughout the service as one of the ablest of the officers of high rank, his selection by Secretary Denby was a foregone conclusion for months before the final announcement was made. During his long service he has had probably as comprehensive a career as any officer of the navy, combining service with the officer personnel at Annapolis, contact with the enlisted personnel at various shore establishments and years of service afloat.

In 1914 and 1915 he served as commandant of the Washington navy yard and for four years, from 1915 to 1919, was superintendent of the Naval academy. For his able management of the academy during the strenuous war days when the work there was so expanded to speed up the turning out of officers so badly needed, he was awarded a Distinguished Service Medal. In 1913 Admiral Eberle took a course at the War college.

Born in Denton, Tex., the admiral was appointed to the Naval academy from Arkansas in 1881 and received his commission as ensign in July, 1887. On his detachment from the Naval academy he went to sea in command of one of the battleship divisions and later was given command of the Pacific fleet, his title changing to commander, battle fleet, when the fleet was reorganized.

Senator Hiram Johnson and His Smile

Can you guess why Senator Hiram Johnson wears the smile—a sort of cat-and-canary affair? Well, your guess is as good as anyone's, for the California statesman isn't telling. Anyway, it's the smile he wore when he arrived in New York on the Leviathan from his European tour of inspection. A crowd of his admirers met him—also many newspaper men.

"Yes, I will not be interviewed on domestic politics till I have had a chance to catch up," he said.

In a public address he denounced the plan for America's entry into the world court and intimated that he would tour the country against it. Several among the guests at the dinner shouted at one time or another, "Hiram in 1924." But there was no formal or official launching of a presidential boom.

Perhaps Senator Johnson was smiling with satisfaction with the Leviathan. Anyway, he gazed back at the monster and then said: "One cannot leave a ship like that without some emotion." He had found many passengers on board, he said, who had never thought much of the American merchant marine before. Now, he said, they were "resolved that the Stars and Stripes would be sufficient for them on the seas, and some were resolved that the Stars and Stripes would be sufficient for them on land, too."

Work's Changes in Reclamation Service

Secretary of the Interior Work has taken hold of the United States Reclamation service in earnest. As a result of his activities Director A. P. Davis resigned and D. W. Davis, former governor of Idaho (portrait herewith), was put in charge of the service.

Secretary Work explained that his reasons for accepting the "resignation" of A. P. Davis, former director of the reclamation service were to effect a reorganization of that service in a way that would eliminate the need for "two engineers" and replace one of them with a man who could "help the farmers on the reclamation lands."

"I have Mr. Davis' resignation," Dr. Work said. "We don't need two engineers in charge of the reclamation service. In the future the service head will be known as the chief of the bureau of reclamation, and will be qualified first to aid the farmers, rather than supervise engineering works on the projects. D. W. Davis, former governor of Idaho, is such a man and I have appointed him as the bureau chief, have abolished the office of director and placed F. E. Weymouth, former assistant chief of the service, in the position of chief engineer of the bureau."

Explaining the need for the reorganization, Dr. Work asserted that the government had expended in the 26 reclamation projects of the country $135,000,000; had received only $15,000,000 from the farmers in turn and there was $3,000,000 now due the government, which the farmers could not pay.

He Is Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett Now

In many thousands of homes in the United States the career of Capt. William A. Moffett is watched with interest. This naval officer gained extraordinary popularity and reputation when he commanded the Great Lakes training station during the World war. From the Great Lakes he was assigned to active duty as commander of the battleship Mississippi, then the fastest and most powerful fighting ship afloat. In announcing his appointment to sea duty, Secretary Daniels said:

"No one in the war has accomplished a bigger or better task than Captain Moffett at the Great Lakes station. He has done a wonderful work."

Captain Moffett was next made chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics.

Now he has been promoted to the grade of rear admiral. Four other captains have been raised with him: Rear Admiral W. D. MacDougall in charge of the naval observatory at Washington; Rear Admiral L. A. Bostwick, chief of staff of the commander of the fleet; Rear Admiral J. L. Latimer, judge advocate general of the navy, and Rear Admiral F. H. Schofield, member of the general board.

British Anger Costs Him Crown

England About to Act When Maharaja of Nabha Abdicates in Favor of Son.

Calcutta.—The lightning of Britain's anger has hurled another ruler from the throne of his ancestors. His highness, the maharaja of Nabha, one of the Punjab states, has abdicated in favor of his son, four years old. The maharaja, a liberal, cultivated Sikh of an ancient house, stepped down as a result of a stern decision by Judge Stuart of the Allahabad high court and his resignation has been accepted by the government of India.

Yet it is not so long since the maharaja, who is only forty years old, and who succeeded his father a dozen years ago, basked in the sunlight of Britain's favor. He had the honor of being received by his majesty, King George. His highness—he retains his rank and title—was one of the group of potentates who adorned the king's coronation and dazzled London by the magnificence of their gems and the splendor of their attire. His spouse, whom he married in 1901, accompanied Sir Ripudaman Singhi Malavendra—to give his name—to the coronation.

Aided Britain During War.

Out of his private purse, which is deep and full, he made generous contributions to the various war loans and war funds; he gave a fully equipped hospital ship, the Nabha, for services in Mesopotamian waters. His loyalty was recognized by creating him a grand commander of the Order of the Star of India and a grand commander of the Order of the Indian Empire.

He had been a paternal ruler and, among other reforms, introduced free education in the elementary schools of Nabha. He was educated by private tutors and has traveled much, both in India and abroad. He is a Fellow of the Royal Geographical society and a member of the Royal Asiatic society.

Despite all this the bolt of British anger has struck him and dethroned him. To be sure, Nabha is one of the smallest of the Punjab states; its 270,000 people dwelling in 928 square miles; its public income is about $525,000 a year. The neighboring state of Patiala is six times as big and vastly more populous and wealthy.

Whatever the motive, it was developed before the Allahabad high court that the Nabha durbar (council) and the Nabha police systematically and intentionally fabricated cases against persons connected with Patiala, with the view of injuring them in the eyes of the Patiala durbar.

Innocent Men Convicted.

The official report says that innocent men, some of them Patiala officials, were convicted by the Nabha courts on inadequate evidence and under circumstances proving the complicity of the Nabha judiciary and a deliberate intention to damage the state of Patiala and the officials' guilty knowledge concerning the chief minister of the state, the chief police officer of Nabha, in active connivance with the maharaja of Nabha.

The government of India was considering action when the maharaja personally visited the agent to the governor-general and offered his resignation, which, after some hesitation, the government has accepted on the following conditions:

The administration of the state of Nabha will be undertaken by the government of India, the maharaja abdicating in favor of his four-year-old son; the maharaja will reside in the state and pay a substantial compensation to Patiala; will make visits only to Nabha or elsewhere with the permission of the government of India; he will remain subject to the obligations of loyalty and obedience to the crown and to the government of India.

The maharaja having accepted the conditions, the government assumes the administration forthwith. To save the face of his highness, the government of India consents to give the maharaja the salute he has always received on formal occasions. This salute from the British—the number of guns being regulated by their relative rank—convinces the natives that their rulers are still potent.

Lover's Age Spoils Girl's Wedding Dream

One look at her lover's face, in which she saw his gray hair and wrinkled brow, sent Miss Maude Reeves back to her home in London, England, with her hopes for a wedding blasted.

Miss Reeves met a man she new as J. Harris, a New York city merchant, through a matrimonial bureau. They exchanged pictures and letters, and Harris finally sent for Miss Reeves to come to America to be his wife.

The girl saw her lover, turned her back on the Statue of Liberty, and asked that she be deported to England. Her request was granted.

INDIAN WITH BAPTISTS

The third meeting of the World's Baptist alliance is being held in Stockholm, Sweden, with races where Baptists have adherents all represented. In going over the list it was found that the North American Indian was not represented, so the European committee wrote to the American Baptist Home Mission society to have a "Red Indian from North America" in the party to complete this cosmopolitan attendance. David Paddlety, a Kiowa from Oklahoma, was selected.

Indians in U. S. Show Increase

Population of Tribes Under Government Guardianship Grows 13,500 in Ten Years.

Washington.—There are 340,907 Indians in the United States, an increase of 13,500 in the last ten years. Two-thirds of the Indians of all ages are American citizens, and there are about 50,000 Indian voters of both sexes. During the World war 12,000 Indians served under the flag.

There are 200 Indian reservations and 371 Indian tribes, speaking 58 different languages. Of these 371 Indian tribes still remaining there are only 20 tribes where the majority of Indians and their families are dwelling in tepees, wikiups or hogans.

Those Indians who have not yet abandoned their primitive life as far as modern homes are concerned are living on reservations in six different states. Arizona has the largest number of reservations where the majority of Indians have not abandoned their tepees or hogans, while California and New Mexico come second.

There are 44,200 Indian families living in permanent houses. Indian farmers number 40,962, and they are cultivating 890,700 acres of land. The value of all cattle owned by the Indians is $35,000,000. The value of all Indian property is estimated at $1,000,000,000.

Millions for Education.

The United States government is expending $5,000,000 annually for the education of Indians. There are 91,968 children of school age, 6,279 of whom are ineligible for attendance, and 20,746 not in school. The government boarding and day schools number 251 and have an enrollment of 24,222; the 81 mission schools have 6,470 enrolled, and the state public schools are educating 34,301 Indians. The total enrollment is 64,943.

There are 59,000 Indians affiliated with Catholic churches and 48,000 with the Protestant churches. There are 200 Catholic missionaries and 400 Protestant missionaries working among the Indians.

There are about 240,000 Indians still under the guardianship of the government. The Supreme court has held that citizenship is not inconsistent with wardship. All members of the five civilized tribes of Oklahoma (101,000) and the Osage nation (2,200) are citizens, as are children born of citizen parents and those who receive patents in fee to land.

A total of 38,000,000 acres of land has been allotted to Indians and there are still 125,000 Indians who have not been allotted land. The unallotted acreage of Indian land is 35,000,000.

This government appropriated $370,000 to care for the health of the Indians in 1923. There are 78 hospitals and sanitariums, with a bed capacity of 2,400. There are 150 physicians in the Indian service, 80 nurses, 70 field matrons and 7 traveling dentists. The number of Indians treated in 1913 was 32.24 per thousand, and in 1920 the death rate was 22.33.

Osages Get $11,700 Apiece.

In 1922 there were 28,940,934 barrels of oil produced on lands of the Osage nation. There was $11,700 distributed, per capita, to the Osages in 1922 from royalties on oil and bonuses from leasing of oil land. The Osage tribe has received a total of $111,863,530 in royalties and bonuses from oil lands. The production of oil and gas on land of the five civilized tribes of Oklahoma in 1922 was 8,200,000 barrels.

There are 1,392,379 acres of irrigable Indian land; actually irrigated, 366,000 acres. The United States government has expended on irrigation so far $25,592,436. The irrigation projects now under construction involve 605,000 acres. The board feet of timber on Indian reservations is estimated at 35,000,000,000, with a value of $100,000,000.

The amount of tribal funds held in trust on interest at 3 to 5 per cent by the government for the Indians is $25,000,000, and the funds of individual Indians held in trust is about $35,000,000.

There are 256 employees in the Indian office in Washington and 5,361 in the field service. There are 2,000 Indians numbered among the employees.

The Indians invested $25,000,000 in Liberty bonds.

Morgan Befriends Evicted Woman

For several days Miss S. E. Lodewick, descendant of the fifth mayor of New York, sat among her household belongings, as shown above, in front of 222 Madison avenue and in the shadow of the mansion of J. P. Morgan. The eighty-one-year-old woman had been evicted. Mr. Morgan sent food out to her and offered other assistance, as did many passers-by, but Miss Lodewick was permitted to return to the house to sleep until she could find other quarters.

HATCHES CHICKEN WITH FOUR LEGS

Will Attempt to Train Million-Dollar Prodigy to Walk on the Ceiling.

SCARED BY CENTIPEDE

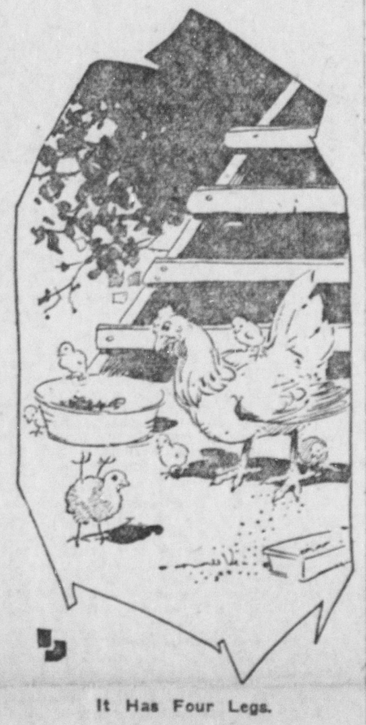
Highlands, N. J.—The chief topic of discussion among local chicken fanciers is the news of the broiler phenomenon hatched at Mrs. E. Degenbrock's home, Bay avenue. It has four legs, Mrs. Degenbrock says.

According to Mrs. Degenbrock, two of the remarkable chick's legs are placed between its abdomen and the ground, following the time-honored custom of leg-placing among leg-bearing animals and poultry.

Two Legs on Its Back.

Then there are two more legs on its back. When Mrs. Degenbrock's family first saw this phenomenon they thought they were the victims of some ophthalmic irregularity and had almost decided to have their glasses changed. But yes, the four feet were really there.

If there had been only three feet, the Degenbrocks could have called the chick "Yard," but owing to the four feet, no name has yet been hit upon.



It Has Four Legs.

The Degenbrocks want something appropriate to four feet of course. Somebody suggested "Horse," but the Degenbrocks told him to go on home and mind his own business.

The Degenbrocks cannot explain the phenomenon. The eggs from which the chick was hatched were guaranteed strictly fresh. The only theory that has been advanced was brought up by little Agnes Albertson, a neighbor, who said that she saw Winona, mother of the little chick, being chased by a centipede one day shortly before she started to set on the egg that was eventually to be the phenomenon.

Try Upside Down.

Just as soon as the chick gets old enough, the Degenbrocks are going to put her on a ceiling, and if she walks upside down they will be convinced that the centipede did indeed frighten Winona so much that the little chick was marked.

Even now the little one can turn handsprings with half the effort of the normal chick and it is amusing to see the little yellow ball of fluff revolving like a pinwheel in the middle of the barnyard.

The Degenbrocks wouldn't take a million dollars for her.

Waterspout Hurls Fish Over Florida Golf Links

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Hundreds of fish, ranging in size from four to six inches long, fell on the golf links of St. Petersburg Country club at Pasadena when a waterspout estimated to have been more than a mile high, broke on the eastern shore of Boca Ceiga bay.

Two local fish companies sent out trucks to bring in the fish, but it was found they were too small. The majority were mullet, although a few trout and bluefish were picked up.

During a period of twenty minutes in a hard electrical storm four big waterspouts were seen, three in Boca Ceiga bay and one in the Gulf.

What Interested Him.

It was dull at home. Mr. Flubdub kept going to the window which faced the house on the next lot, then back to his easy chair, and again to the window. The wife followed his maneuvers with disapproving glances. She knew the symptoms. Finally he said he thought he would step over to the neighbors for a few minutes. Mrs. Flubdub went to the window and pointed out that the house across the hedge was entirely dark.

"Yes," said Mr. Flubdub, "but the cellar is all lit up."

HOW TO SLEEP ON A BARE FLOOR

IT is more a matter of SLEEP, than of bed or board.

Some people can sleep sitting up, standing up, even while walking.

Many people can't sleep in the softest of downy beds; and all of us suffer occasionally from nerve-racking, wearing, tiring wakefulness at night.

There is always a reason for sleeplessness. Usually, it is a "sour" stomach, a liver that has "lain down" on the job, congested bowels, or biliousness.

Then, just before retiring, take Beecham's Pills. They soothe an uneasy stomach, encourage the organs of digestion and elimination to natural activity, and assure restful sleep no matter what!

Personal Hygiene

EVERY well-informed physician is opposed to the use of poisonous, burning and irritating solutions for personal hygiene. This is an indisputable fact.

Zonite may be used frequently at great germicidal strength on sensitive membrane and tissues without the slightest danger or harmful effect.

Zonite is non-poisonous and non-irritating. It has greater germ killing power than pure carbolic acid and has more than seventy-five times the germ killing power of peroxide.

NOTES FOR HUNTERS

Must Procure 1923 Licenses Now and Display Properly.

HUNTERS' LICENSES—The hunters' licenses and tags for every county in the state have now been completed and shipped. Sportsmen are urged to obtain their licenses at an early date to avoid the rush that is sure to follow later. Hunters who neglect to make application for their licenses far enough in advance of the time they want to use same cannot expect to go hunting, but must wait until the license and tag have been received by them. Up to this time the 1922 tags and licenses have been recognized. No one will be permitted to use their old license and tag after the licenses have been in the hands of the County Treasurer a sufficient length of time to permit applicants to secure licenses.

BLACKBIRD SEASON—The blackbird season has been on since August 1st. In many sections thousands of blackbirds have been killed, and "blackbird pie" is being enjoyed by hundreds of sportsmen and their families. This is one game bird that may be killed in unlimited numbers without affecting the future supply.

DOG TRAINING SEASON—The season for training dogs opens August 20th instead of September 1st as heretofore. Training is permitted from one hour before sunrise until 10 p. m., eastern standard time, on all game, elk, deer and wild turkeys. Dogs may be trained on raccoons at any hour of the night. No training is permitted on Sunday and no firearms usually raised at arms' length and fired from the shoulder may be carried. Training at any time during the training season is permissible only so long as dogs are accompanied by their owner or handler and are under control at all times. Persons who take out dogs for training purposes that cannot be controlled, or persons who are careless and permit dogs to injure game pursued assume the responsibility and are liable to fines. Where training is contemplated on privately-owned land, it is recommended that the permission of the owner to train be obtained in all instances before so doing. While not compelled by law to do so, it is recommended that persons training dogs carry their licenses and display their tag as a means of identification.

Improving Stretch of Road.

Improvement to the stretch of road between Monument, Orviston and Beech Creek, is being made by hauling on quantities of cinder from the General Refractories plant. George Gardiner, of Blanchard, succeeded William Austin when the latter moved to Lancaster, as foreman on this highway route, No. 359, and is in charge of the work.

One Way Traffic on Bridge.

One way traffic was put into effect on the bridge spanning Bald Eagle creek at Milesburg on Friday. There was considerable congestion when the autos began to travel to and from Bellefonte on Saturday evening but the plan is considered a necessary safety aid and will be continued.

BASE BALL NOTES

Bellefonte and State College Contesting for First Honors.

With Bellefonte and State College in a neck to neck contest for first place honors, local base ball fans are taking keen interest in the games of the Centre County Base Ball League. On Saturday afternoon a double header was played between the two teams.

Robert Long's pitching was a remarkable feature. For 12 innings his arm remained so fit that the State College batters simply could not connect. Only 1 run was scored in the 12 innings. Bellefonte's players gave wonderful support and the result was they won both games, taking first place with a lead of one game.

The first game resulted in a score of 10—0 The other was playing 5 innings of a game formerly held in doubt, the former score being 5—3, in favor of Bellefonte. As our boys scored 3 runs and the State College players only 1 run, the final and accepted score was 8—4, in favor of the home town team.

Centre Hall, on Saturday defeated Millheim, 12—9.

Next Saturday State College will play at Millheim and Bellefonte will play at Centre Hall. The fans look for State College to win, but Bellefonte will have a real contest for the Centre Hall nine defeated our nine at Hecla Park on Business Men's picnic day.

OVER THE COUNTY

An Overland touring car, driven by John Horner, of near Tusseyville and a Cadillac, driven by "Peck" Poorman, of Boalsburg, collided on a curve in Tusseyville near the C. P. Ramer store. Both cars were damaged, the Overland the worst, but the occupants escaped with nothing more than a shaking-up.

An Oakland sedan, driven by Miss Helen Wilson, of Linden Hall, and a Paige roadster, from State College, collided at the Thompson place between Lemont and State College, damaging both cars considerably. Mrs. F. E. Wieland, of Linden Hall, was cut about the head when she was thrown from the sedan but none of the occupants in either car was seriously injured.

A 1600-pound mule, owned by John H. Horner, of Tusseyville, got out of its stall and wandered onto the barn floor. Going to the straw shed where the boards were thin, the animal broke through and hung straddle of a big girder. The mule strove desperately to free itself, but was unable to secure a footing. Mr. Horner, discovering the plight brought its mate on the scene and planned to haul the animal out. Just when the ropes were adjusted for the haul, the struggling mule made a final lunge and dropped through the opening to the manure shed below, a distance of fourteen feet, landing on a bed of straw, unhurt.

A sneak thief entered the garage of Mrs. Frank Williams, in Centre Hall, one night recently and stole two tires from a Ford sedan. The invader had a key with which he unlocked the padlock on the garage door and then went away quietly, leaving no trace. It was the second time the garage had been visited and articles taken. It is thought likely the same person entered both times.

Forty two years ago A. B. Tobias left Penn Hall for Michigan, and now he is enjoying his first return. When he came he met a number of former schoolmates and boys of his youth, and the meeting was one of real pleasure. Mr. Tobias came east with his wife and daughter, Miss Mattie Tobias, several weeks ago and has been spending some time in Penn's valley, principally at Aaronsburg. He expects to go from there to Snyder County, and also visit a number of towns in Central Pennsylvania; then to Niagara Falls to complete the trip of pleasure, and homeward. He is 72 years of age and a happy and cheerful individual. He made farming a success and still looks after a small fruit farm at his home in Berrien Springs. Two of his sons attend to two other farms of considerably larger acreage. He is pleased with Michigan, and not at all sorry that he took Horace Greely's advice forty-two years ago.

MOTORISTS' STORIES DIFFER

Racing Cars Collide; One Was En-route to Bellefonte.

J. W. Gramley, in a Buick six touring car, driving from his home in Greenwood to Bellefonte, and G. A. Griffith, of Altoona, in a Buick four, driving to Bland park to attend a picnic, tell different stories as to what caused a collision last Thursday, as they reached a bridge at Hensheytown, along the state road between Tyrone and Bellwood.

Gramley had four passengers in his car, which was only slightly damaged. According to his story, Griffith seemed to want to pass him and he pulled to the right of the road before the village was reached but Griffith seemed unable to pass. It is averred that Gramley has admitted his speedometer showed 35 miles at times.

Griffith had six passengers, two women being injured when his auto was considerably damaged as it struck the Gramley car near the approach to a bridge. Griffith said that Gramley was trying to pass him and he was forced into the concrete sidewall of the bridge.

It is alleged that both cars were racing through Hensheytown and that state police are investigating the accident.

Mrs. John Ishler Dead.

Mrs. John Ishler, of State College, passed away very unexpectedly on Monday morning at 1:05 o'clock from heart failure. She was a member of a party that started on Sunday morning to motor to Atlantic City. They pitched camp at an outing place along the highway between Lancaster and Philadelphia. Mrs. Ishler chatted and joked with her friends before retiring about 10 o'clock. She seemed to be in unusually good spirits. About midnight members of the party were awakened by her violent coughing. A physician was summoned and she died about one-half hour after he arrived. Deceased was born near Zion, her maiden name being Jemima Garbrick. Had she lived until the 31st of this month her age would have been 68 years. Surviving are her husband; the following children: Will Ishler, Luther and Harry, who reside on farms near Bellefonte; John Ishler, of Boalsburg; Mrs. Willard Dale, Bellefonte; Mrs. Robert Kerstetter, Mrs. Roy Gentzel and Mrs. Clyde Bouse, of State College. The remains were prepared for burial and brought to the home funeral services being held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and burial made in Shiloh cemetery.

Is in Wrong Apparently.

Tony Lake, of Philipsburg, is in wrong apparently, having been placed in jail in Bellefonte this week accused of operating an automobile while intoxicated and of causing an accident. He was paroled at the May Term of court for a similar offense.

KILLED IN MONTANA

Stephen Coburn, Husband of Bellefonte Girl, is Victim.

Stephen Coburn, husband of Elsie Holdeman, a native of Bellefonte, his mother and a son, 8 years old, were killed instantly in an accident which befell them near their home in Helena, Montana, the early part of last week.

The man's wife, who was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel D. Holdeman, was born in Bellefonte and resided here with her parents during the early years of her life. The parents moved from here to Altoona a number of years ago and her father died in that city. There was a large family and the children have become scattered, locating in various parts of the world. Mrs. Holdeman has been residing with a daughter at Nyack, a suburb of New York city.

A message telling of the misfortune stated that the three victims were buried last Thursday at Helena and Mrs. Coburn would likely recover from her injuries. None of the messages gave details of the accident, but it is presumed the 4 were in an automobile. Mr. and Mrs. Coburn had but one child. It is thought that, since death has so unkindly claimed both, she will return to the east, as one of her sisters, Mrs. Andrew W. Whiteman, and a brother, John Holdeman, still reside in Tyrone.

Maurice Kramer Dead.

Maurice Kramer, a native of Bellefonte, died in the hospital at Danville last Thursday morning at 7 o'clock from complications. He formerly resided in Bellefonte, being employed as a baker at Ceader's bakery (now Clevenstine's City bakery) and went to Danville 6 years ago. He was well known in his home community and news of his death came rather as a shock, being unexpected. Had he lived until Sept. 19, he would have been 40 years old. He was married on March 30, 1908, to Miss May Walker. Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Annie Kramer, of South Spring St.; his widow and daughter Catherine, at home; the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Lawrence McCafferty, Harry, Mrs. Dean Shope, of Bellefonte; Mrs. William Rishel, of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Arthur Pennington, of Cleveland, O., and Charles, at home. The body was brought here on Friday and funeral services were conducted on Saturday afternoon at 2:30, his former pastor at Danville, Rev. Mackie, of the M. E. church of State College, officiating, assisted by Rev. C. C. Shuey. Interment in Union cemetery.

Cyrus Watson Dead.

Cyrus Watson, widely known throughout Bald Eagle valley, died on Wednesday morning at 4 o'clock from asthma and dropsy. Deceased was 75 years old and had been making his home with his son, Harry Watson, of Milesburg, watchman at the High St. crossing of the P. R. R. in Bellefonte. He formerly resided in the vicinity of Unionville. Surviving are two sons: Harry, of Milesburg; William, of Tyrone; and one daughter, Mrs. Christ Jodon, of Juniata. Funeral services will be held on Saturday morning at 10:30 from the house. Interment in Trcziyulny cemetery.

Mrs. James Hanley Dead.

Mrs. James Hanley died at her home in Eagleville on Monday morning from old age, being 80 years and six months old. Deceased was born near Howard, a daughter of Isaac Hall. Four children preceded her to the grave. Surviving are her husband and one brother, Mack Hall, of Bellefonte. Interment at the Baptist cemetery in Blanchard this morning.

Mrs. Sarah Bowes Dead.

Mrs. Sarah Bowes, widow of Joseph Bowes, died on Saturday evening at her home near Beech Creek. She was 80 years old on Feb. 2. Eight children survive. Mrs. William Gill, of Julian, a daughter, is the only surviving one residing in Centre County. Burial was made in Clark cemetery on Monday.

Louise K. Pearce Dead.

Louise K. Pearce, 10 years old, a daughter of Russell and Catherine Pearce, died at the home in State College on Saturday from chronic nephritis. She was the third child in the family and is survived by her parents, 5 sisters and 1 brother. Burial was made on Tuesday ot Pine Hall.

Mrs. William James Dead.

Mrs. William James died at the home of her nephew, David James, of Marsh Creek, Monday morning. She was 77 years old. Surviving are three sons: John, Romola; Eugene, Eagleville, and Charles, of Liberty Twp. Burial was made yesterday in the Baptist cemetery at Blanchard.

Miss Cecelia Way Dead.

Miss Cecelia Way on Saturday died at her home in Unionville. Deceased was 78 years old and was born in Union Twp., a daughter of William Way. She was the last survivor of a family of 8 children. Burial was made Tuesday in Union cemetery at Unionville.

Burned Cross at Blanchard.

Many residents of Blanchard, watched for half an hour as the fiery cross of the Ku Klux Klan burned on a hillside near the town on Sunday evening about 9 o'clock.

MONEY FOR ROADS

Centre County Credited $38,887.09; Other Council Notes.

At the regular session of Council on Monday evening a written communication from the County Commissioners stated that Centre County had been credited with $38,887.09 for state aid in road work throughout the county. The money is not, however, available at this time.

By request, salaries of members of the local board of health were increased as follows: Health officer to $35; secretary to $25 per month.

The G. F. Musser company registered a complaint that the first floor of the Phoenix mill property, which they rent from the borough, was sinking and that if any damage was caused, they would likely claim damages. The matter was referred to the water committee.

J. M. Cunningham stated that the unsightly condition of the water works should not be tolerated any longer and suggested a new fireproof building. The water committee was authorized to secure plans and estimates for such an improvement.

An unusual feature of the report of the street committee was payment of $10 for a sewer tap by T. H. Harter, as called for by Ordinance, Mr. Harter so arranging the plumbing in his new double building that drainage from both will pass through one tap. J. D. Seibert, borough manager, was of the opinion that $20 should be collected for the tap inasmuch as it took the place of two taps but Mr. Harter contended that he would only pay $10 as called for by the Ordinance. The dispute was referred to the street committee and borough solicitor.

Among other things the water committee reported receiving $79.62 in full for the 1921 water tax duplicate.

The fire and police committee reported cutting a tree at the Logan Hose House and installing crossings there.

Much discussion was heard about parking of cars and a proposed Ordinance regulating traffic and disorderly conduct by the Burgess but no definite action taken. The sanitary committee reported very little enthusiasm in the proposal of a dray making regular trips through town to gather ashes and garbage. As this could be done at small expense Councilmen desired the papers to urge our residents to write the clerk, W. T. Kelly, if they would desire such service at nominal cost.

The street committee was authorized to consult with the borough engineer regarding opening of Beaver street east from Allegheny.

A complaint about motorists parking cars on South Potter street was referred to the street committee.

Gored by Vicious Bull.

William Grove, 32 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Grove, who reside on a farm along the Jacksonville road east of Bellefonte, was very painfully injured when a vicious bull gored him last Thursday. He was in the barnyard on his way to milk the cows when the bull attacked him and crowded him against the barn wall. A younger brother drove away the bull and carried William into the house. He has been under the care of a physician and will likely recover.

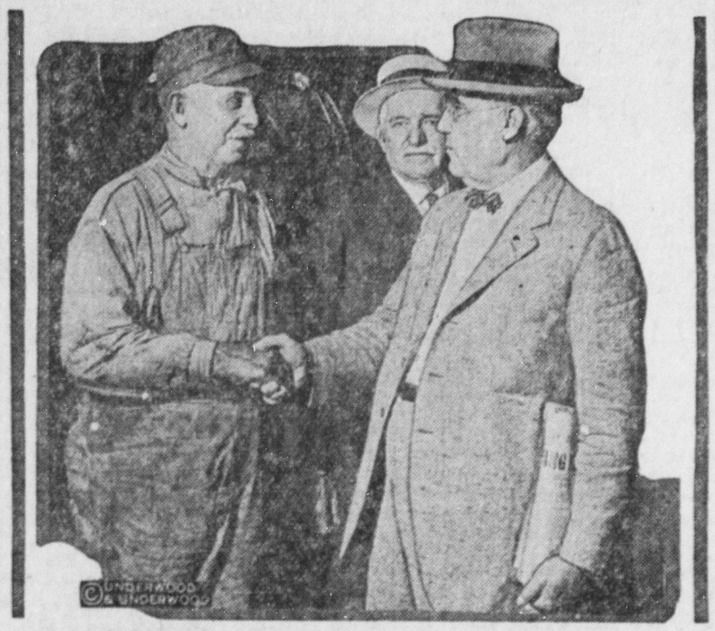
Suggests Fine Harding Memorial

William Chester McDonald is seen, strapped to the board on which five of his twelve years have been spent, holding his most cherished possession—an autographed portrait photograph given him by President Harding when he visited the Children's Seashore Home at Atlantic City, N. J., last June. Now he has proposed to the Philadelphia Sesquicentennial committee that a fund be raised, from the pennies of the children of America and other voluntary subscriptions, to erect a children's building at the exposition and dedicate it to the "lover of children, Warren G. Harding." The proposal has been accepted and Mrs. Winifred Stoner, the author-lecturer, shown in the photograph with little Billy, started the ball rolling with a check for $1,000.

Veteran Engineer Is Retired



John Reihansperger, a seventy-year-old engineer on the Chicago & Northwestern railway, affectionately clasped the throttle in a farewell grip, climbed down from his cab, and closed a railroad career that has covered fifty-two years and two months of service and had carried him over 2,000,000 miles of rails and ties. Reihansperger, who was retired on a pension, witnessed the evolution of the modern railroad system from the days when the first locomotive pulled out of Chicago on the old Galena railroad. He started with the Northwestern at the age of fourteen years and during his service spent forty-six years as an engineer. The photograph shows Mr. Reihansperger shaking hands with William Willsier, assistant general manager of the road, as he pulled into the depot from his last trip.

But she did want to have her hair bobbed, like other girls, and here she is after the barber had worked for an hour over her tangled locks.

THOUGHT BACK WOULD BREAK

Nothing Helped until She Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"When my baby was born," says Mrs. Posluszny, 206 High Street, Bay City, Michigan, "I got up too soon. It made me so sick that I was tired of living and the weakness run me down something awful. I could not get up out of bed mornings on account of my back; I thought it would break in two, and if I started to do any work I would have to lie down. I do not believe that any woman ever suffered worse than I did. I spent lots of money, but nothing helped me until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I felt a whole lot better after the first bottle, and I am still taking it for I am sure it is what has put me on my feet."

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

REALIZE VALUE OF LEGION

Victims of Arkansas City (Kan.) Flood Appreciate Aid Rendered by Ex-Service Men.

Citizens of Arkansas City, Kan., realized the value of an active post of the American Legion during the recent flood disaster which destroyed many lives and caused millions of dollars in property damage to communities in southern Kansas.

With the town placed under what approximated martial law, members of the Shelton Beaty post of the Legion assumed a task that only men with military training could master. The duty was to act in conjunction with the city authorities to obtain obedience of laws formulated hurriedly for the benefit of the town and to guard the flooded area from the pillaging of unscrupulous persons who flocked to the stricken district to loot what the water had left.

An organization was formed in short order by the Legionnaires and a cordon of guards was thrown about the water front. Guard shifts were chosen from 125 volunteers, who performed this task for three nights until the flood abated. A battery of field artillery of the National Guard, called out with the start of the flood, was in the midst of a drive for recruits, and it was necessary for Legionnaires to fill the depleted ranks of the organization to save its members from the strain of night and day service.

The Legionnaires' members had underwritten in part a guarantee to a Chautauqua company before the disaster occurred. Communicating with Chautauqua officials they obtained release from their contract and an offer from the company to stage the program for the benefit of the flood relief fund.

Now the veterans propose to co-operate in plans to be formulated by civic organizations working toward repair of damage caused by the flood and for permanent relief to persons who lost their homes and property.

MEMORIAL TO ALL WAR DEAD

Structure in Oakland, Cal., Also to Contain Names of Heroes of Allied Nations.

A majestic memorial to the dead of the World war, destined eventually to contain the names of the war dead of every allied nation, has been erected in Oakland, Cal., as the personal contribution of Dr. Leroy F. Herrick. Already the names of 84,324 American heroes have been placed in the crypt, and records from other nations will be sealed in the vault as they are received.

The memorial has been erected in the Allied Memorial Center on the banks of Lake Merritt in Oakland. Doctor Herrick, who for the past 30 years has been a practicing physician in Oakland, paid the entire cost of the memorial, a structure of steel and stone, and will maintain it. It has been his ambition since 1919 to erect such a memorial, and his unique plans for recognition of the heroism of the dead have won commendation.

Special ceremony has marked the placing of each list, participated in by the American Legion and other veterans' organizations. Doctor Herrick plans to mark each day made historical by World war events with some such ceremony.

He expects to receive the Canadian list next, which will be followed by the Australian and New Zealand rolls. Much delay is anticipated in obtaining the lists of the 1,500,000 war dead of France, and for the complete lists of England, Belgium and other allies.

The monument has portraits of Washington, Lincoln, Roosevelt and Wilson carved in the stone, and the whole is surmounted by an American eagle.

WINS COOLIE LABOR BATTLE

American Legion in Queens County, New York, Obtains Deportation of Imported Workmen.

The coolie labor question has always been considered as one affecting the Pacific coast alone. But this is not the case, according to recent newspaper accounts. Had it not been for a post of the American Legion, such cheap labor would be turning out goods in a Long Island (N. Y.) factory.

For a long time two hundred Chinese had been employed in certain factories in Long Island City, but the Legion in Queens county, headed by the Blissville post, brought pressure to bear on the federal authorities so that they swooped down on these factories, arrested the men, and placed them on Ellis Island, where they were later to be deported.

This action by government officials culminated a year's fight by the former service men, in the face of adverse circumstances. Newspaper columns were closed to this gross violation of the federal law, but the dauntless Legion men kept hammering away until their point was carried and the men were on their way out of the country.

WORKER FOR LEGION BUDDIES

Robert G. Simmons, Nebraska Congressman, Has Done Much for Ex-Service Men.

Robert G. Simmons, congressman from Nebraska, is a democratic sort of a chap, and doesn't hesitate to tell about it. He keeps a Holstein cow, drives a popular touring car, and hobnobs with his neighbors, particularly those who are members of the American Legion in his home town of Scotsbluff, Neb., where he has made his way up to the position he now holds.

Simmons was born in a sod house on a western Nebraska homestead, sixty miles from a railroad. His early life was like that of any youngster of the western country. He had to help earn his way by farm labor, janitor work, messenger duty and odd jobs. When he attended college at Hastings he mowed lawns, washed dishes and tended furnaces to pay his expenses.

He entered the military service in 1917 at Fort Omaha, Neb., as a private first class, but when discharged in 1919, had been elevated to the rank of second lieutenant, air service. Mr. Simmons is a lawyer, and was county attorney at the time of his enlistment.

He served one term as commander of the Nebraska department of the American Legion, during which time certain legislation favored by the Legion was successfully enacted. He was active in securing the passage of a law establishing a $2,000,000 endowment fund, income from which is expended by the American Legion in the state for the benefit of needy ex-service men. Interest in the affairs of the ex-service men of the nation is a deep concern of the Nebraska congressman and he expects to devote a great deal of time to the Legion's program for relief of disabled.

PLAN TO TEACH AMERICANISM

Illinois Legion Commander Arranges for Broad Campaign During School Vacation.

Every school child in Illinois will hear a weekly message of Americanism during the school year, according to announced plans of the Illinois department of the American Legion, in accepting an outline of work from Commander Charles W. Schick of that state.

Commander Schick plans that every Legion post in the state's 102 counties will assign certain members of the organization to speak in each schoolroom in the cities and each school in country districts every week during the school year, carrying a message of better citizenship to the youth of America.

In this manner the Illinois Legion man believes that such careful training aiming toward a better understanding of rights and privileges of citizenship will result in rapid assimilation of aliens in the state as well as assisting in raising the standard of citizenship of those already in possession of these rights.

Co-operation by members of the Legion with churches and other agencies in preparing citizens for naturalization is included in Commander Schick's plans. Prospective citizens will receive thorough training in the requirements for naturalization, so that the applicant will be familiar with American history and institutions before the final papers are awarded. Because church life is closer to the home it is hoped that the Legion, working through the various denominations, may realize on this plan for citizenship.

El Paso to Welcome Veterans.

Legionnaires who travel to San Francisco for the annual convention of the American Legion, may pass through El Paso, Tex., where a reception awaits them. The local Legion post started the idea, which was joined in by the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, army officials and railroads entering the city. A feature of the visit of each delegation will be a short trip into old Mexico, across the international bridge into Juarez. Automobiles will be furnished for this trip. The invitation holds good for either the coming or going trips of the Legion travelers, or both, according to the El Paso committee.

Only Auxiliary Baseball Team.

Members of the American Legion auxiliary in Stanton, Ia., are believed to have formed the only baseball team composed of woman relatives of former service men. A challenge to the team of any other unit has been made by the Stanton nine.

YOUTH NEARLY STRANGLED IN COIN SLOT TURNSTILE

Through Sheer Strength Men Force Bar and Release Lad After Fifty Minutes.

New York.—Boyhood's call for experiment almost caused the strangulation of Harry Magit, five years old, when the youngster's head became wedged in the turnstile at the Brighton Beach station of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company, West Fifth street and Sea Breeze avenue, Coney Island. With Lillian Agen, the lad sought to go through the exit side of the coin slot turnstile. He was unable to release himself after his head became fastened between two bars.

Passengers from the trains strove vainly to force the bars sufficiently to free him. A plumber with a hacksaw offered to cut the bar off the turnstile, but was prevented from doing so. The Agen child, with whom the boy had been romping, ran and notified her mother of the mishap. Isidore and Harry Agen, father and uncle, respectively of the girl, hurried to the turnstile, surrounded by scores of spectators, while Mrs. Agen telephoned the police and the Coney Island hospital.

Through sheer strength two men forced the bar back sufficiently to release the lad after his head had been wedged in for fifty minutes. Police reserves and Hook and Ladder Company 244 arrived after Doctor Berger, an ambulance surgeon from Coney Island hospital, had treated the child and said no bones were broken. Harry was carried to his home with a sore neck, after a thrill that comes but once in a lifetime.

In Tragedy of Little Italy Only Juliet Dies

New York.—Mike Russo is a Roman, but only a barber in a little shop down around Thompson street in New York's East side Italian center. He thinks Romeo and Juliet is just a cigar. Being a Roman, he had his opinion of Sicilians, and, therefore, little Italy mourns his daughter Madeline, age fourteen.

Madeline and her romance must have twanged the imagination of the whole settlement. She was so young and so pretty. She went to her father some months ago, told him she loved Steve Ramelli.

There was quite a storm. Madeline was only fourteen and too young.

Well, anyway, this Steve was a Sicilian and therefore no good. No, she couldn't marry Steve.

Madeline disappeared. She and Steve were found living together.

Mike sent word that it would be all right. They were to meet him at the license bureau. They walked into a trap. Steve was arrested for abduction. Madeline was taken into custody as a witness against him and sent to the Children's Society home.

At night, with a key obtained, no matter how, Madeline opened the grating on the window of her room in the home, tossed out a rope of knotted sheets, took a hitch around a bedpost, and began to lower herself to the street, where Steve waited in an auto. She fell to her death.

Man Blown to Death by Bomb Tied to Battery

Long Beach, Cal.—A bomb, believed to have been attached to the battery of his automobile, exploded and killed G. Ferris Van Tassel, twenty-seven, an oil worker, as he started to drive out of the back yard of his home here.

His bride of one month heard the terrific detonation and saw Van Tassel stagger toward her, both hands blown off, his face disfigured and his chest riddled with flying pieces of metal; he fell dead before her.

Police are searching for Ed Engman of Fullerton, a former husband of Mrs. Van Tassel. Mrs. Van Tassel told the police that Engman had often said to her before their divorce, fifteen months ago, "there will never be any stepfather to my child."

Find Seven Frogs in Snake After Rescuing the Eighth

Culpeper, Va.—While W. V. Carpenter, a young farmer of this county, was passing from one hay field to another, his attention was attracted by the peculiar actions of a frog leaping about in a gully. He found it was endeavoring to escape from one of its hereditary enemies, a moccasin snake. With his hay fork he dispatched the snake. The rural mail carrier, arriving on the scene at that moment, remarked upon the peculiar appearance of the reptile, saying he had never seen one with large knots or lumps all over it. An autopsy was held and seven frogs found within, some of them alive. The snake measured nearly six feet in length.

Kidnaps Girl for Wedding Sensation.

Chicago.—Just to put some pep into their wedding, Russo Nicola and Philomena Costello conspired to stage a kidnaping scene. Russo grabbed his sweetheart on a crowded street and took her away in an automobile. Police gave up the search when the couple turned up happily married.

Praised for Killing Mate.

Cincinnati.—Accused of killing her husband when he threatened to kill her and their child, Mrs. Bessie Bush was arraigned in court and freed. Judge Yeatman praised Mrs. Bush for her act.

JUVENILE KNITTED FROCKS; STYLES FOR SCHOOL GIRLS

COMING! Knitted frocks for wee daughter and schoolgirl sister, just the kind juniors love to wear. If anyone thinks mother and big sister are to have a monopoly on charming knitted dresses this coming season, just let them attend the early autumn knitted outerwear displays which juvenile apparel departments will soon be staging from coast to coast. Never has a more imposing array of knitted frocks for little tots and growing girls been devised.

For everyday wear there are cunning junior models, jersey knit, in solid shades with dashes of color at neck and sleeve, and clever touch in unique girdles, Peter Pan collars, long-waist models and adroit fastenings. The beauty of these garments is, they do not wrinkle, but keep looking fresh and in order regardless of strenuous wear.

Pretty Knitted Outfit.

Made in slipover fashion, they are easily adjusted and this is in their favor.

Novelty of stitch features especially the dressier modes for children, ranging from French ribbed to dropstitch, the latter producing interesting lace-like effects. Note that it is the combination of plain stitch with fancy rib which contributes to the charm of the knitted frock in the picture. The popular side-tie effect is introduced and the sailor collar expresses a youthful touch. One can sense from this portrait, that the autumn knit frocks for little tots will carry a vast amount of style and novelty features.

Many of the new models make appeal with girdle line. A particularly pretty knitted frock thus styled is further enhanced with a trim of several harmonizing shades, knitted spirally into sleeve border and wide girdle. Another clever idea is an allover openwork knit dress fashioned with a full skirt almost like a ballet, with a little belt so low on the hips as to give a piquant silhouette.

While the staple colors are available and recommended for practical wear, entrancing hues make appeal for more festive occasions. There is a lovely new shade called sistine blue and the mauve tones are especially good, while white elaborated with vivid tones finds happy expression. There is a tendency to combine colors and one may find attractive ideas displaying the waist portion in contrast to the skirt, the entire frock being in one piece.

The first requirement in school clothes for the girl of twelve to sixteen is that they be practical, and this requirement immediately eliminates fragile materials, light and easily soiled colors, and excessive ornamentation. In fact, the mother who sends her child to school dressed in clothes more suitable for party wear than for the classroom, commits an offense against good taste. School clothes should be school clothes—neat, simple, comfortable and plain; anything else is a mark of extremely poor "clothes sense."

The miss who is returning to school may have her own ideas as to what she wants to wear, and it is quite possible that she is guided by what is being worn by debutantes and by the dress of older women. In this case it is well for the mother to put her foot down and insist on appropriate clothing. If the little lady appears in the classroom in a frock like the one shown here, she will be as well dressed as any of her classmates, and both she and her mother will have the satisfaction of knowing that her dress conforms to the first law of good clothes—the fine simplicity of good taste.

For this school frock dark brown wool goods is used, cut in a slip-over pattern and ornamented with fine tucks below the waistline. The belt is held by six tabs of the same material tucked and showing a little needlework in the same color. The sleeves are elbow length, and in place of cuffs have tabs similar to those at the waist. The belt is of self material and ties at the back in a small bow.

Daughters of Pocahontas plan to hold a festival there on next Wednesday evening and the Otterbein Brotherhood another on the following Saturday evening, Sept. 1.

The Montgomery & Co. display windows were nicely improved this week by replacing one section of broken glass with new and by installing new framework and a system of ventilation that will keep the windows from sweating and then freezing in cold weather, one of the problems of a storekeeper. The new framework is also very neat and absolutely tight, preventing dust from entering. Ben Bradley had the job.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Charles Carbaugh, of Los Angeles, Cal., are here visiting Mrs. S. E. Satterfield, at her home on Bishop St., after a delightful motor trip in their Oldsmobile. They have traveled 3,600 miles, stopping at places of interest, including the Grand Canyon, Painted Desert and the petrified forests of Arizona, bringing with them specimens of the petrified wood. They encamped at night at camping grounds along the road. They note that many tourists are on the highways.

The meeting of the Otterbein Brotherhood of the United Brethren church, held last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller, was well attended, 17 being present. The men transacted considerable business relating to their festival, held on the island on Saturday evening, and named a committee of arrangements for planning the annual corn roast, this work being given to Rev. Frank B. Hackett and Jesse Confer. The Brotherhood is also fostering a Boy Scouts troup and it was reported that all but two members of the required number have been secured.

Sportsmen Meet.

An interesting meeting of local sportsmen was held last night at the Court House to discuss plans for securing fish and game for this section. District Attorney Furst presided. Committees were appointed to apply for fish for various streams and game for the mountains. Game Warden Thomas Mosier and C. E. Logue, the latter of Woolrich, a noted trapper in the employ of the State, attended the meeting. Mr. Logue gave an intensely interesting outline of some of his experiences in trapping bear and wild cats. He explained that two, and possibly four, bear would be brought from McKean County and liberated in the Centre County woods, also that this county will be given a number of ringneck pheasants and rabbits. He made a strong plea for destruction by sportsmen of all animals that kill game.

Wetzler's Big Festival.

The big festival of the Wetzler's Boys band of Milesburg will be held on Saturday evening on the school house grounds at Milesburg. First Diphtheria Prevention Clinic

The first diphtheria prevention clinic was held in Bellefonte Tuesday, August 21, in the Red Cross room, when 96 children received their first injection of toxin-antitoxin to protect them against diphtheria. Dr. J. L. Seibert and Dr. David Dale treated the children, assisted by the state nurse, Miss Ethel M. Campbell, and Miss Blanche Hayes, state supervisor. Miss Daise Keichline and Mrs. Blanche Schloss assisted by keeping records. The second clinic will be held Tuesday afternoon, August 28, between 2 and 3 o'clock. Parents who have not had their children treated and desire to do so, must obtain consent permits from Miss Daise Keichline, East Bishop St. or Mrs. Blanche Schloss, High St. These permits must be signed and returned to Miss Keichline not later than Friday noon, August 24. The second clinic was held in Lock Haven last Friday. Two hundred children were treated. This treatment is not successful unless all 3 injections are taken.
